Embracing and Sharing Christ's Love

CHARTING THE COURSE WITH PASTOR AARON

A few years ago, Forbes surveyed people working in businesses and found that 45% of frontline employees would rather remain in the status quo than welcome the necessary change to reach for something bigger and better. This survey really just tells us something we already know intuitively: people don't like change. What I'm about to say may not make sense at first, but I believe it's true: Christians should be some of the most adept people at navigating change. And here's the reason why I think that: change is built into the foundation of our faith. Let me explain.

Christian discipleship is founded on repentance. In the New Testament, the Greek word that we translate into English "repent" is the word metanoēō, and it means "to have a change of heart" and "to turn from sinning." The New Testament begins with John the Baptist and Jesus both preaching the same message: "Repent!" In other words, being a follower of Jesus involves recognizing that we need to follow Jesus because without his help and guidance, we would be lost and going where we shouldn't go. That is a process of change.

Additionally, change is often forced upon us by our environment or circumstances, and part of Christian discipleship involves acquiring the tools we need to adjust to such changes. When we experience a tragedy or a loss, our faith helps us to grieve and gives us the hope, peace, and resiliency to continue making meaning and finding purpose despite our new circumstances. The work of the Holy Spirit in our lives to help us during those times is a work of change. Thank God for that.

Finally, as culture and society evolve and change around us (as they have done around other Christian communities for thousands of years!), it is the responsibility of faithful disciples to allow the Holy Spirit to show us more effective ways of expressing and living into our faith. The Church, while remaining similar in many ways over time, has drastically changed since its beginning. This is the nature of the faith journey.

As people of Christ, we are people of change. Change remains "unnatural" for us, but that is why God has given us the Holy Spirit—to empower and enable us to do what is necessary to become the people God desires for us to be. As we begin a new year together, let's trust in the work God is doing and wants to do in us to become more like Christ tomorrow than we were yesterday.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
PITTSFORD

First Presbyterian Church of Pittsford SECOND SUNDAY CONCERTS

Sunday, January 8, 2023 3pm
"Some Enchanting Piano Duets"

Bonnie Choi and Kevin Nitsch, piano

An eclectic collection of works which, taken together, strive to truly engage the listener, each in its own way. The duet arrangements of Bach's religious music touch our souls. The transcription of the deeply moving third movement of Rachmaninoff's Second Symphony touches our hearts. The Chaminade pieces remind us of our connection to the simplicities of nature coupled with a craving for the exotic. Finally some Brahms reimagined in salsa rhythm goes directly to our innate capacity to respond to sound through dance, no matter how unexpected the source.

A free will offering is collected with a suggested donation of $10 Adults and $5 Children/Students.

Good News Jail and Prison Ministry—Please Note

The church has been notified that the local jail system is no longer able to accept books and periodicals for their reading programs. For years we have worked with the prison chaplains with your donations. Other programs remain available through the jail system where volunteers can help rebuilding inmates' lives with the chaplains. Please contact the church office if you have the time to become involved in one of their rewarding programs. We thank you for your past support.

The Vision of a Welcoming Church based on the Book of Acts

Lenten Pop-up Fellowship Groups

This Lent we will be studying the book Inhabiting Eden by respected Old Testament scholar Patricia K. Tull. This book focuses on God's call for the faithful to take care of the earth.

Tull looks to the Bible for what it can tell us about our relationships, not just to the earth itself, but also to plant and animal life, to each other, to descendants who will inherit the planet from us, and to our Creator. She offers candid discussions on many current ecological problems that humans contribute to.

The church occasionally forms temporary small groups aimed at members who may not know the power that church groups hold. We are calling these "pop-up fellowship" opportunities. These groups will last six weeks and are designed to help form new relationships and help people learn to think spiritually, whether they are just beginning a spiritual journey or looking to build on an existing one.

The Christian Education Committee is looking for people to host a group. These groups can meet at the church, in a home, or online. The group can share the leadership role, assign a leader, or Craig can come to lead your group. Groups and the opportunity to sign up for these groups will be available in Fellowship Hall starting in January.
